This was a stormy meeting. The racing was hard, sometimes rough and the steward had an unenviable task. He took decisions that were unpopular with both teams supporters. When he excluded Colin Watson in heat 13 after 4 laps of bumping, boring, elbow and knee bashing with Charlie Blacklock things turned ugly and there were fights and objects thrown in the crowd.

Heat 13 was controversial. At the first attempt Hart fell on the first bend and McQueen stopped on the second. The race continued to a finish and Bridge fans thought they had a 5/0. The Steward decided that Bishop had caused Hart to fall and ordered a rerun with all 4 back! The rules were still being developed in these early days and Stewards (referees today) used a lot of discretion. Just like now their decisions caused some heated disputes.

Heat 8 - Strange decisions again. Frank Arthur and Tommy Croombs were both out. Jack Chapman led and Charlie Spinks was challenging hard. Spinks had a great try around the outside and was very close to Chapman but Charlie lost it and hit the fence. Chapman took the chequered flag but the Steward disqualified him taking the view that he caused Spinks to fall. No points were awarded to anyone and the boos from the crowd were deafening.

Heat 15 featured a speedway classic. For 4 laps Chapman and Kilmister fought it out hammer and tongs. Kilmister was an all action hustler while Chapman was a smooth stylist. They passed and repassed with Kilmister changing line abruptly cutting across Chapman but always giving him room. Chapman kept coming back never giving up but Kilmister got the win by just a length.
