This meeting was sadly held in the shadow of the death of Spencer Stratton. A pioneer rider Stratton had been the manager at Newcastle. He was killed in a road accident travelling home from a speedway meeting at Workington.

One minutes silence was observed by 10,000.spectators and the riders and officials.

Brilliant riding by Cordy Milne at his home track marked him up as a contender for the title. He rode a great race in heat 10.

Outgated by George Wilks he gave him no peace, attacking on both sides at every opportunity. Wilks put up a great show to keep him behind but in a terrific burst of speed all the way around the outside of the third and fourth bends Milne was ahead onto the home straight. This great effort produced the fastest time of the night.

Wotton's chain snapped when he was leading heat 8 from Pymar. Geoff had to take evasive action and Maddern got by to lead.

However he too lost the lead by falling.

Clibbett dropped out after 3 rides, replaced by Shepherd. Maddern 2 falls 1 engine failure.

In the first attempt at heat 1 all 4 riders fell. There was a first bend pile up which Bill Clibbett managed to avoid.

However Bill had the bad luck to come down all on his own on lap 2. None of the riders could restart so the steward called a rerun.

A night of surprises. Alec Statham was developing into a very talented rider at this stage but was not one of the favourites to win the round. To score 12 with a track record into the bargain was a huge achievement against class opposition.

Cordy Milne and Eric Langton were so busy weighing each other up in heat 3 that Tommy Price shot past the pair of them before they realised he was there. They went after him flat out but were too late.

Heat 19 was to decide who was the highest scoring qualifier for the final. Bluey Wilknsn had to win to displace Wilbur Lamoreaux at the top. No easy task as Bluey was up against Jack Milne and Lionel van Praag. Bluey managed but only just as Milne did his utmost to stop him. Pre-war it was vital to score as many points as possible because of the controversial bonus points system in the Final. The system had deprived Bluey of the World Title in 1936 despite his maximum on the big night.

Bluey Wilkinson injured his shoulder at New Cross the previous evening. At the time he could not move his arm. He was able to compete through physio sessions at Tottenham Hotspur football club on the morning of the final. Jack Milne had a dose of the 'flu. However these two riders dropped only one point each on the big night. Once again the unpopular bonus point system decided the issue, in Bluey's favour, and deprived the 93,000 crowd of a run off for the Championship. It seemed a kind of rough justice as the system had robbed Bluey of the World Title in 1936.
