A TREMENDOUS start to the season for the Bullets with four league points on the board which could already be a major step towards play-off qualifications.

And the first race of their campaign was a memorable one as skipper Kyle Bickley was penalised 15 metres in Heat 1 for breaking the tapes, only to make his way through the field and pass Danny Phillips on the last lap.

Bickley was also the only visiting rider to defeat William Lawson, and the all-round strength of Berwick meant the Devils were unable to take a single race advantage.

The Bullets took the lead with a 5-1 in Heat 2 from Ace Pijper and Mason Watson, and it was a memorable debut for Pijper who also won Heat 8 ahead of Josh Embleton to put his side eight points clear.

Greg Blair defeated Phillips in Heat 10 to extend the lead to ten, at which point the Bullets were content with a series of shared races before securing Victory through Blair and Pijper's 5-1 in Heat 14.

The home heat leaders won eight races in total, but the Bullets only had two last places and the 15 points (paid 20) scored by reserves Pijper and Watson were crucial.

AGREGATE SCORE

THE Bullets fired early to put the match beyond the Devils with three 5-1s and a 4-2 in the first four races meaning it was always a case of damage limitation for the visitors.

Kyle Bickley scored a maximum for the home side as they extended their perfect start to the season, and there was another impressive showing by Ace Pijper with three race wins at reserve.

The last of those came in Heat 14 which turned out to be the last of the meeting, with the Bullets awarded a 5-1 after George Rothery — who had led Bickley for two laps in Heat 10 — crashed heavily trying to make up ground from a 15-metre handicap, resulting in the meeting being abandoned one race short.

Danny Phillips and Tom Woolley both won two races for the Devils, but the home side suffered just two last places, one of which was a fall for Mason Watson in Heat 11 which also caused Josh Embleton to come to grief.

PRE-MEETING rain led to tricky conditions and an eventful contest, with the Oxford top two of Jordan Jenkins and Nathan Stoneman spearheading a second win in the space of three days.

Both riders scored maximums, with Stoneman coming out on top in a ding-dong scrap with William Lawson in Heat 4, although he did look set to lose out in Heat 6 only for Armadale No.1 Danny Phillips to fall.

Jenkins and guest Ace Pijper put the Chargers ahead with a 5-1 in Heat 5 but the hosts levelled two races later through Lawson and reserve Gregor Millar as Ben Hopwood dropped to the back.

Oxford led 31-29 with five races remaining and remarkably each of those heats saw a trading of 5-1s, with the Chargers maintaining control despite two home maximums from Millar and Tom Woolley.

Pijper's second place ahead of Lawson in Heat 11 gave the visitors a gap to maintain, and with the top two in such good form the overall outcome was inevitable, with Stoneman quickly passing Phillips in Heat 15 to complete his own full house.

BELLE Vue completely dominated this one-sided encounter and dropped just six points all evening against an Armadale outfit hit by illness and unavailability.

The Devils arrived Without William Lawson and Gregor Millar due to Covid and George Rothery after a work injury, whilst the likes of Danny Phillips, Tom Woolley and guest Connor Coles on his old home track were unable to make an impression.

The Colts would have topped the 70-point mark but for a spectacular fall for Sam McGurk in Heat 5, and their only other last place came from Archie Freeman in Heat 7 - but he was otherwise unbeaten in his remaining three rides.

Each of the last eight races resulted in 5-1s to the rampant Colts, with the highlight being Freddy Hodder's effort in Heat 12 to pass the far more experienced Woolley and team up with Nathan Ablitt.

There was a full 18-point maximum for home captain Jack Smith, whilst Harry McGurk was paid for the lot from his six outings, and Ablitt reeled off a 15-point maximum on his home debut. It may well turn out to be the biggest team total we see in the sport this season.

MILDENHALL proved far too strong for Armadale, whose wait for a 2022 victory goes on and who were restricted to just four race wins on their own circuit.

Jason Edwards romped to a 15-point maximum for the Fen Tigers, and the tone was set in Heat 1 when home No. 1 William Lawson exceeded the time allowance, with the combination of Edwards and Sam Bebee combining for the first of three impressive 5-1s.

The visitors also had control in the middle order with Jack Kingston continuing his impressive comeback with three race wins before a Heat 12 fall, and Greg Blair was a solid guest for James Shanes.

Danny Phillips and Josh Embleton worked hard to keep score respectable with the Devils gaining a bonus in Heat 12 when Josh Warren also fell, enabling them to take a 5-0.

The last three races were shared with Edwards coming from the back to complete his maximum, passing both Tom Woolley and Phillips.

THERE'S a long way to go in the race for the top four this season, but could the Heats 13 and 15 power of Alfie Bowtell and Ben Morley fire Kent into the play-offs?

The big two once again came up with the goods late-on to deny the Devils a first win of the season, despite a fine show at reserve from Gregor Millar who notched three race wins.

Heat leaders Lee Complin, Tom Woolley and Danny Phillips also took the flag in an improved home display, but although Complin defeated Bowtell in Heat 1 the domination by the Royals' top two thereafter always looked ominous.

There was a key turning point in Heat 11 when Phillips fell, enabling Kyran Lyden to follow Bowtell home for a 5-1, and they extended their lead to six points when Complin crashed out of Heat 13.

Millar and Elliot Kelly gave the Devils hope in Heat 14 with a 5-1 over Connor King, who enjoyed a good Kent debut, but Bowtell and Morley got the job done in the decider for a second away win which could be vital come the end of September.

LEICESTER ran up the big score expected of them and although their top three went unbeaten, it was the displays of their least experienced riders which will have most pleased their management.

Mickie Simpson was involved in two 5-1s, Max Perry was stylish and confident, whilst on this occasion Vinnie Foord took pride of place for a splendid ride in Heat 11 to switch inside Lee Complin off the second bend and then hold off the experienced Devils No.1 for a 5-1 with skipper Joe Thompson.

Complin and Danny Phillips made several good starts, meaning the likes of Thompson, guest Alfie Bowtell and Connor Coles did have to do some passing, but the visitors' only win came in Heat 14 when a previously scoreless Elliot Kelly hit the front and rode a tidy four laps beat Tom Spencer and Foord.

Race of the night was Heat 15 with Bowtell quickly going clear whilst Coles worked hard to secure his paid maximum, firstly passing Phillips and then surging inside Complin, who briefly responded before the Cubs rider went clear and the Armadale No. 1 fell on the last lap.

FOUR riders were withdrawn in a meeting which took three hours and 20 minutes to complete, on what was always going to be a testing day due to the heat and associated track conditions.

An inspection was called after the second attempt to run Heat 9, and during that time three Armadale riders - Josh Embleton, Lewis Millar and Gregor Millar - were signed out having received knocks, whilst the Fen Tigers' Matt Marson broke a collarbone in Heat 3.

There were a total of 19 falls throughout the event, but home No. 1 Jason Edwards scorched to an imperious paid maximum and his opposite number Lee Complin clocked the fastest time of the day in Heat 5.

Home reserves Josh Warren and Luke Muff enjoyed a field day with 24 (paid 31) between them, but it was a nightmare West Row return for recent Devils signing Elliot Kelly, who got out in front in Heat 14 but suffered mechanical trouble on the second lap.

Oxford had three unbeaten riders in a one-sided meeting with all seven Chargers recording at least on win or paid win, whilst the Devils' only success came from Lee Complin in Heat 5.

By that stage, the home side were already ten points to the good and they added a series of further race advantages with their top two of Jordan Jenkins and Nathan Stoneman well supplemented by Sam Hagon, who dropped just one point and came through from the back on more than one occasion.

The combination of Jenkins and Henry Atkins enjoyed a perfect night with three 5-1s, whilst Atkins was also involved in a maximum advantage in Heat 8.

And the margin would have been greater but for Arran Butcher falling on the last bend of Heat 14 when heading up another 5-1 with Jody Scott, although there no mistakes from Jenkins and Stoneman in Heats 13 and 15.

SUCCESS at last for Armadale with their first victory of 2022 at the tenth attempt, as they came back from an early six-point deficit to see off their basement rivals Plymouth.

With a superb guest performance at No.1 from Kyle Bickley, and reserve Rhys Naylor hitting double figures from only five rides, there may have been more in this meeting for the Centurions - but they had no rider at No. 5 with Richard Andrews reportedly at a wedding, and guest Sam McGurk surprisingly failed to score.

The Devils went ahead with a 5-1 from Josh Embleton and Lee Complin in the Andrews-less Heat 6, but the Centurions briefly responded at 25-23 up before conceding successive 5-1s.

Bickley's maximum was spoil by an inside pass by Complin on the third lap of Heat 13, and although Bickley took revenge Heat 15 the match points were already resolved thanks to a Heat 14 5-1 from Elliot Kelly and Gregor Millar.

MAX Clegg made it four appearances and four maximums in Kent colours as the Royals kept alive their slim chances of gate-crashing the top four with a comfortable home victory.

The Iwade side have become accustomed to their top two riders scoring maximums, and they were at it again on Sunday with Ben Morley also unbeaten from five rides, leaving Kent still with the opportunity to reach 27 league points prior to last night's (Wednesday) trip to Oxford.

Clegg produced the highlight of the meeting when penalised 15 metres for a tapes offence in Heat 11, but he quickly moved into second place past Josh Embleton and team-mate Chris Watts, and then came past the Devils' Tom Woolley to keep his unbeaten run going. Morley was given a tough battle by Lee Complin in Heat 13 before the Armadale racer suffered mechanical trouble, with that 5-1 sealing victory for the hosts who went on to card two further 5-1s.

Other highlights for the Royals were a first race win in the NDL for reserve Chris Watts, whose colleague Woolley enjoyed a good day with paid 11 - but the Devils could also take some credit for their battling efforts with Complin, Woolley and Danny Phillips always keeping things interesting.

WHEN the 2022 season reviews are written, one of the prominent questions will concern how exactly a Belle Vue team packed with such talented youngsters somehow didn't manage to make it into the play-offs.

Defeat at strugglers Plymouth was partly explainable by the Centurions clearly being at their strongest in the early part of the season; but defeat at Armadale in a fixture where the Colts required just one league point to make it into the top four was a disaster of epic proportions. There was a gaping hole in the Belle Vue team where Nathan Ablitt would normally be found, with 'work commitments' being cited as the reason - although as a rider aged 18 or under, if that had been declared with three days' notice, the Colts would have been entitled to operate rider replacement, which might just have made the difference.

None of that should detract from a terrific Devils performance or a great effort by the Armadale track staff to get the meeting on after heavy rain earlier in the day.

The efforts of their team were doubtless cheered just as loudly in Oxford who stood to gain greatly from the Colts' slip-up.

An eventful contest ensued given the conditions, but the experience of Lee Complin and Danny Phillips was of vital importance, along with a best display of the season from Josh Embleton who was involved in two early 5-1s to set the tone.

And despite the efforts of Jake Mulford, who won his first four rides, the Colts fell short with their night summed up by two races in particular: Heat 4, when the Devils' Tom Woolley had fallen whilst leading and yet they still took a 3-0 as Freddy Hodder and Harry McGurk both failed to finish the re-runs; and Heat 13, with the gap at five points, when Complin passed Jack Smith who fell, whilst McGurk came to a stop, and the hosts put it beyond their opponents with a 5-1.

PLYMOUTH had been forced to wait nearly six months for their second victory of the season, but when it came it was enough to take the Centurions off the bottom of the table.

The Devils could still fight back if they beat Leicester in their outstanding home fixture, which was rained off last Friday, and they fell short of a league point at the Coliseum despite a 15-point maximum from No.1 Lee Complin.

In an entertaining encounter Complin received good support from Danny Phillips but the home side also had two big scorers in Adam Roynon and a revitalised Richard Andrews. Whilst the contributions of their reserves ultimately swung the match in their favour.

After a 5-1 in Heat 2, the Centurions gradually built a lead with a number of 4-2s, whilst the visitors gated on a maximum in Heat 5 but Andrews and Rhys Naylor both got the better of Elliot Kelly.

The lead was extended to 12 points in Heat 9 as Andrews passed Tom Woolley at the end of the third lap, but a fast first-lap move from Complin in Heat 11 took him past Roynon with Kelly completing a 4-2 - which was backed up in Heat 13, with a repeat performance out front as Woolley supplied third place.

That gave the Devils the chance of a point but those hopes were extinguished in Heat 14 as Adam Extance joined Andrews for a clinching 5-1, before Complin completed his maximum with another spectacular effort in Heat 15 to get around Roynon.

TABLE-TOPPERS Leicester raced to a third away league win of the season and in the process condemned Armadale to the wooden spoon for 2022.

The Lion Cubs had been set to travel north without Dan and Joe Thompson, but when the Championship Grand Final at Poole - was postponed early they were able to change their plans and rejoin their NDL side, who gave a strong all-round display with all of their riders winning at east one race.

There were several incidents and falls on a slippery turn four, but none resulting in injury, and the 'dropped point' in the meeting came in Heat 3 when two of the more experienced riders, Connor Coles and Danny Phillips, both came to grief.

Coles recovered to win his next four rides, showing again what a key signing he has been, with Dan Thompson also taking the flag in his first three outings. The second of those was a 5-1 with impressive reserve Vinnie Foord in Heat 5, which took the Cubs seven points clear.

Lee Complin starred for the Devils and impressively rounded Joe Thompson in Heat 6, but a possible 5-1 to the hosts was lost when Josh Embleton nearly fell on the fourth bend.

Coles and Tom Spencer defeated Tom Woolley in Heat 7 to effectively put the match beyond the Devils, with the second Half of proceedings much more even save for a couple of Cubs 4-2s in Heats 11 and 12.

Dan Thompson's unbeaten run ended when he retired from Heat 13, having nearly come to grief when pressuring Complin, and the Devils No.1 became the first man to beat Coles on-track when he took the flag in Heat 15.
