

MOTHERWELL 1930

PARAGON SPEEDWAY

There are no reports of meetings that have been found at the moment however, a newspaper report in the Motherwell Times of October 24, 1930 reports:

“The Paragon Speedway which opened a few weeks back seems to be giving a good account of itself. It is gratifying to note that the gate doubles itself week by week. The track, which is a third of a mile, has been lapped in 24 seconds by Bill Barclay, an almost unknown rider. Our own local rider Abie (Alfie?) Williams, seems always to be having bad luck with his machines, which always let him down. Andy Nichol, of course, has swept the board on three occasions, but some of the unknown lads are fast approaching his expert handling, and we look forward to some thrilling duels in the future. The Paragon Motorcycle Club are arranging a dance at an early date, and a good social gathering can be looked for.

A special attraction at the speed track tomorrow will be a contest between Blantyre and Glasgow. There should be big bursts and more excitement tomorrow.”