NOTE: Due to showers the track was a trifle heavy, but it had stopped raining before the action was due to begin. However, aside from Green, Cooper and McGregor, the Motherwell riders made no attempt to race at all, so the meeting official said enough was enough after heat eleven, abandoning the match. The Swindon riders subsequently held a practice session and many of the spectators stayed on to watch. This effectively proved that there was nothing wrong with the racing surface – it simply required a bit of effort.
