The winner of the A.C.U.Cup groups had been the team that scored the most race points in 1935, 1936 and 1937.
In 1938 a new system was introduced. Match points were awarded on the basis of 3 points for an away win, 2 points for a home win or away draw and 1 point for a home draw.
The match formula did away with traditional pairings and each of the main 6 riders rode with each of his 5 team mates.

Hart was challenging for the lead when he fell in heat 4. Varey was disqualified in heat 5 for riding into Duggan.

In the first run of heat 9 Hansen and Hargreaves had a high speed collision down the straight. Hansen was thrown bodily and fortunately just missed the referees box. Morian took the blame and was out of the rerun.

Varey and Rogers crashed at the start in heat 18. Rogers took the exclusion and Varey was not fit for the rerun. Cordy Milne equalled Arthur Atkinson's TR in the rerun.

Confusion reigned in heat 8. Van Praag was disqualified for crossing the white line. Van's red helmet exclusion light came on and he was black flagged as he continued. The other riders all slowed down under the impression that the race was stopped. At this point Hansen was last. Morian was the first to realise the race was still on and roared into action. As he thundered past and no one stopped him the other guys got the idea and blasted after him. It was too late and Morian bagged 3 points to howls of protest from the crowd. The announcer was drowned by the booing as he tried to give the result.

This convincing win for Wembley was a strong indicator that Belle Vue were going to give up the ACU Cup which they had held since its inception in 1934. It was West Ham who took the trophy in the 1938 Final.

The only real tit bit was Kitchen's victory in heat 15. Bill had several attempts on Van Praag's lead but without success until a last bend heroic effort pulled him by for a win by inches.
