This meeting featured a special event for machines fitted with a new invention of Norman Parker's. The dirt deflector - way back in 1939! The device was not adopted at the time because it was thought that too much dirt was thrown directly sideways.

"Crocky" Rawding's real first name was Emerson.

New Cross had a 1 point lead with one heat left. Wembley used Frank Charles at reserve to replace Aub Lawson. Charles and Hansen against Longley and Ray Duggan didn't look too promising for a New Cross victory. Duggan went for a big start and looped. He needed assistance and the race was restarted. Hansen led the rerun convincingly from Longley and Charles. A Wembley victory looked certain then half a lap from home Hansen's chain snapped and he was down. Cecil Smith announced the Rangers surprise win, "A gift from the Gods".

Frank Goulden's lighting reactions saved Jack Milne from serious injury in heat 10. Jack put a wheel over the white line but it caused a skid and he was thrown into Goulden's path. Frank laid it down instantly and needed medical help. When he finally stood up and walked slowly off he was cheered to the echo. Kaines was carried off with concussion in heat 12 after hitting the fence. Kaufman fell twice and went home after his third ride with a bout of flu'. Bert Jones was delighted to have a new bike again due to the generosity of the supporters and Charlie Knott.

in heat 5 Dallison and Pitcher were having a real set to. Dallison was forced wide and fell. He signalled his displeasure to the steward and the race was indeed stopped. However the steward called all four back and said he only stopped the race for an unsatisfactory start.

Parkinson and Longley collided in heat 1 and Cliff was out of the match. He had concussion but fortunately was well enough to go out onto the centre green half way through the match. Cliff wanted to ride again but Sir Arthur Elvin persuaded him not to take the risk. Only Jack Milne gave the Lions anything to worry about.

In heat 10 Bill Kitchen was the first man to defeat Van Praag at Wembley in 1939.

For once Eric Langton was not gating well and Kitchen had little support.

Elevated into the Lions top 6 the very promising Aub Lawson found the going a bit tough.

Clear signs of his tremendous talent were obvious and he went on to fulfill them post war.

Wimbledon were a thorn in the Lions side at this time. They had just knocked The Lions out of the London Cup before this good away win. Ironically Ronnie Greene was protesting that Wembley were too strong as they had not lost a rider in exchange for Charles' return!

West Ham were saved by their Canadians Chitty and Gibb. Otherwise this was a massacre.

Thankfully Gibb's win over Van Praag in heat 7 was a classic. The Canadian outgated Van and second guessed his every move over 4 laps to keep him pegged back. The crowd were on their feet with excitement. Last lap back straight and Van was level but it was no use. Gibb tore into the last bend and held the inside at great speed. Even Van couldn't get round him. This great effort seemed to exhaust the youngster and after it he was not the same for the rest of the night.

Speedway was favoured by Royalty at this meeting with The Duchess of Kent in attendance.

In the second half Bluey Wilkinson made a rare 1939 racing appearance as a break from his promotional duties at Sheffield. Bluey was up against Arthur Atkinson in a match race series.

Akko was at the top of his form and a strong contender for the World Championship. Wilkinson showed his true class in beating Atkinson 2-0. Bluey also took the TR up to 47.24 mph. The Duchess presented the trophy to Bluey for his match race victory.

A brilliant speedway match with great racing all through. The result was in doubt all the way to heat 14. Phil Bishop showed what he could do, if he could only stay on his bike, in heat 13.

Phil shot from the gate like a rocket and resisted all Bill Kitchen's attempts to pass. Kitchen was on peak form and not many could hold him off at the time. Tiger Stevenson, although no longer at his best, rode brilliantly to take heat 14. He was badly held up when Spinks fell. The bustling way he made up the ground and got by Hargreaves and Harrison was something to see.

Lamoreaux equalled the track record in heat 1. He already held it jointly with Lionel Van Praag.

This was a belter of a South London derby between old rivals. Lots of great racing, hard fought all the way with the track record equalled as well. It was a fine win for New Cross. The Rangers were generally a shadow of what they had been the previous year when they won the league.
