In the "Homes of British Speedway" book by Robert Bamford and John Jarvis it is stated that there was an Individual meeting held on 28th April 1968 won by Mike Broadbank. The Speedway meeting was immediately followed by a full programme of stock car racing.

From an unmarked programme the speedway meeting was 8 riders racing 8 heats with a 9th race for the 4 highest scorers. The programmed line up was: Mike Broadbank, Peter Smith, Colin Pratt, Peter Munday, Bob Kilby, Mike Keen, Peter Jackson & Clive Hitch.

I have searched through the Irish newspapers that are available online and have only come across an advertisement for the meeting in the Evening Herald of 26th April, as well as appearing in the fixtures list of the Sunday Independent on 28th April. There are no match reports.

The Speedway Star of 17th May 1968 provides some coverage of the meeting. It states the meeting was watched by a massive crowd of 20,000 and was won by Mike Broadbank following a run-off with Peter Smith.

The "British Speedway Handbook 1969 Edition" gives no details.
