

1983

Of the seven who had finished the previous season Newcastle retained their top four riders in the averages but, to comply with the new 45 points limit, Keith Bloxsome went to British League King's Lynn and Tom Owen reluctantly left for Stoke. Robbie Foy did not return to this country. They were replaced by sixteen years old Australian Neal Barnsley, 23 years old New Zealander Steve Duckworth whose father, Bob, had ridden for Newcastle in 1963 and a 22 years old Belle Vue loanee, David Wild. Duckworth retired after being involved in a racing accident which left Marcus Williams paralysed, Barnsley's season was cut short by injury and Wild retired after a spell out injured with a dislocated shoulder. Paul McHale, who had been given back his licence, replaced Duckworth but his season was ended by injury in June. Bernie Collier, previously with Middlesbrough replaced Wild and Martin Scarisbrick, another Belle Vue loanee, also came into the side. Others to appear were Greg Dekok a New Zealander who had ridden in one meeting for Mildenhall in 1982, Lawrie Bloomfield an Ipswich junior who appeared only in Southern away matches, Sheffield junior David Walsh who had ridden earlier in the season for Glasgow and John Place who had previously ridden for Middlesbrough.

Joe Owen and Rod Hunter represented Newcastle in the National League Pairs held at Belle Vue on 4 June scoring ten and eight points respectively from their four rides as they were eliminated in the semi-final.

Joe Owen represented Newcastle in the National League Riders' Championship at Wimbledon on 18 September and scored seven points.

Alan Emerson won the World Championship Qualifying Round held at Edinburgh on 15 April with fourteen points. He was eliminated in the British Quarter Final at King's Lynn on 30 April where he scored three points. Bobby Beaton was also eliminated at this stage with a score of five points. Joe Owen was eliminated in the British Semi Final at Eastbourne on 8 May where he scored eight points. Rod Hunter, as Victorian champion, qualified for the Australian Final held at Adelaide on 21 January but was eliminated after scoring eleven points.

Joe Owen who scored thirteen points won the King of the Showground at Peterborough on 29 April, the Tyne Tees Television Classic at Newcastle on 6 June with a twelve point score and the Farewell Trophy at Middlesbrough on 27 October where he beat Rod Hunter who finished in second place in the final.
